“ Charlean and I bonded when we first met. She was genuinely concerned about the wellbeing of others. She never met a stranger. I missed Charlean a lot when she became ill. I always told her I love you before we hung up the phone and she would say the same. Now, I realize she physically won't be in my presence anymore; sorrow is creeping into my spirit real hard. My heart is heavy because Charlean was one of a kind. She'd literally give a person the shirt off her back. Except if it was her favorite, she'd say I want that back. Nikki and Mane, I've been where you are now. I know you are hurting. What I can tell you is that time will ease the pain so you can continue in life. But, you will have good and bad days. What will keep you going is remembering the good times y'all shared and how much she loved you and her grandbabies. I Love you
